

KARMA_general description of the model

DESIGN BY ROSSI&CO

The Karma kitchen is the perfect choice for customers who love clean lines and clear-cut shapes that give maximum emphasis to contrasting textures and colours and provide practical, innovative ways to optimise interior space and overall dimensions.

Karma comes in a wide range of finishes including thermo-structured woods like Rovere Essenza and Rovere Corteccia, textured and matte PET and 42 matte and gloss lacquer colours for maximum stylistic flexibility.

Karma stands out for doors with integrated grooves that define and embellish them. Three types of opening system are available: total handle, partial handle, and counter-grip handle – details that create a look that is both original and extremely functional.

Designed with Look System, Karma features a plinth in heights of 10, 12 and 15 cm, a base cabinet carcass of 72/75 cm, a top of 59 cm in depth and 34 cm wall units.

Compositions can also include 75 cm wide tall units that can hold maxi fridges and ovens and integrate them perfectly into the look of the kitchen.

Karma tall units provide ample space for domestic appliances and storage. Two different module depths give an impression of dynamism to compositions. Despite their size, Karma modules are perfectly balanced and match all other elements of kitchen furniture.

The option of adding 12, 24 and 36 cm drawers offers kitchen designers a great opportunity to experiment with clear profiles and lines in order to emphasise the compact design of their compositions.

Rigorous volumes and well-defined structures permit the creation of minimalist layouts in which combinations of different materials and finishes play a leading role and find expression in a wide range of combinations of great visual impact.

Original and sophisticated details abound, like the equipped riser. This element for island, peninsula and snack tops is designed to form a back with storage space where normally there is no back at all. Positioned behind the cooking area, it proves extremely useful for quick access to ingredients and herbs. And if the top is a snack top, the riser even fulfils a decorative role. Wood or metal trays complete the look and add practicality too.

There is no shortage of open solutions for holding utensils and other objects. Magnetic, illuminated splashbacks provide with practical complements. Joy System modules feature a metal profile for exploiting the space between base cabinets and wall units, and come with shelf and retaining bar and/or a wine glass rack. Open compartments in coloured sheet metal can be installed in various positions to add colour and break up continuity, and to provide discreet storage at the end of a wall units where they are covered by the door and only visible in profile.

Finally, there are modular For-me elements in three finishes, to equip free space in the kitchen or living zone. Used individually, these can furnish a small area of empty wall. Combined vertically with other modules, they form a versatile niche.

Karma also offers solutions for the living zone and can create fluid, coordinated settings capable of furnishing the home in complete harmony.

Like all Stosa kitchens, Karma comes with Furniture of Italian Origin and 100% Made in Italy certification. Cabinets are FSC® certified to show that the wood used is sourced only from woods and forests managed according to the strictest ecological, economic and social standards.

Our use of PET further demonstrates the attention that Stosa pays to green themes.
