A MESSAGE FROM THE FAMILY

Building value, generating future

Our company ethos has deep roots, originating from a family that has always prioritised work, people, and respect for the environment. This straightforward yet deep approach is the bedrock of our future: we build it with consistency, practicality, and responsibility.

Today, more than ever, we feel the duty to give back. To the region where we were born. To the people who share our vision every day. To future generations, whom we want to leave a more aware, fairer and more open business.

Our commitment to sustainability arises not from obligation, but from a choice of who we want to be. To do business means taking care: of the environment, of processes, of our impact.

We strive to cut emissions, innovate in production, value human capital, and create healthy, stimulating environments.

For us, sustainability is primarily a partnership between the present and the future, between what we create and what we leave behind.

The year 2024 was a pivotal moment in our journey: the Green Park project represents our concept of industrial development, harmonising work with the environment and measuring innovation by its benefit to the community.

But our idea of sustainability goes beyond numbers. It is a daily mindset, a far-reaching vision, a collective duty. It is the will to improve, one step at a time, without ever losing touch with who we are.

The Report conveys a vision that, although conceived long ago, comes to life daily, through the efforts those who are with us on this journey.

Because a company, when it remains true to its values, has the strength to change what really matters.
